The bandwidth does not change the speed at which the packets travel. Let's say that you want to download an image of 5 MB. This is not like any other broadband speed test. Performance monitoring and bandwidth together will give you the most complete account of your network performance. Will observe the test in progress data in the test results, you will notice that the numbers can be easily modified without lying. When this happens, Servers have to send the information again, causing a delay. In addition, the data sizes are accurate for the individual byte. The final score presented by TESTMY.NET takes all into account, from start to finish. It is important to know that the bandwidth does not increase the speed of a network, it simply seems that the network is higher. This software is also excellent for troubleshooting. Simple, to make sure you get what you get it. What you pay for. The short answer is the speed. The bandwidth is like a highway with a strictly forced speed limit. Here are some other tips
